ABOUT RFDS > Celebrating 90 years

RFDS has been named the most reputable charity 7 years in a row.
Our Vision

A healthier population across all of Victoria.

Our Commitment

We will go the distance because we care, we are passionate and we are proud of our work.
Celebrating 90 years

A significant milestone in the story of the RFDS, 2018 marked 90 years since the first medical flight occurred back in 1928. In this year of celebration and reflection, RFDS Victoria, continued to meet the needs of rural communities and provide innovative health services in response.

We now have nearly 600 staff delivering much needed patient transport and health programs, raising vital funds and providing corporate and administrative services. None of which could be achieved without the endless effort and support of partners, volunteers, donors and members of our community.

We are proud to be part of a thriving national organisation. The Royal Flying Doctor Service was again voted as Australia’s most reputable charity – for the seventh year in a row. Our nationwide network, working alongside government, community and donors, is making a real difference. Within our own backyard, we have bases, clinics and services situated in nearly fifty communities across Victoria, building capacity through connections and employment, supporting communities to build more resilience and providing critical health initiatives to the furthest corners of our state, securing our place as a key part of the Victorian health system.

In an era of rapid technological advancement we are excited to embrace new technology. We look to innovations like drones, telehealth, home monitoring, wearable technologies and significant medical advancements, as opportunities to extend our service even further. In 2018, we will welcome two new jets to our national fleet with the ability to almost halve travel times and transport more patients and medical practitioners than ever before. Victoria’s second mobile dental clinic is now on the road in East Gippsland, doubling our capacity and frequency in visiting rural towns. These are examples of the nimbleness needed to meet the growing and varying needs of the communities we serve.

We continue to expand and respond to worrying gaps in health care provision. This year we have commenced speech pathology in the Mallee district and launched a community transport initiative in Heathcote with a network of volunteer drivers.

A full calendar of events throughout 2017/18 allowing us to thank supporters for their dedication and support – helping us to reach our 90 year milestone. However, we also recognise the challenges ahead of us and look forward to the future with much excitement. We realise that the most important aspect of our organisation is our people. Highly qualified staff, dedicated volunteers, keen health partners, generous donors, corporate supporters and individuals who inspire us to do even better are all part of our Flying Doctor family. We thank you for your overwhelming support and look forward to continuing and growing our Victorian story together.

As Flynn himself declared:

“If you start something worthwhile – nothing can stop it.”

In Victoria, the RFDS is committed to ensuring that those living in the country can enjoy the same health outcomes as those living in city areas. Remote and rural Australians have up to three times the prevalence of avoidable illness than those in cities. They see doctors at half the rate, and face an average two years shorter life expectancy than people in cities. To overcome this gap, the RFDS delivers services to rural communities, which many in the city may take for granted.

Clinical Governance

RFDS Victoria has a robust Clinical Governance Framework that ensures safe and high quality care across all RFDS Victoria services. Our Medical Director, Associate Professor Morton Rawlin AM, heads the clinical governance team with support from the new role of Clinical and Quality Assurance Manager, filled by Dr Melanie Trivett in 2017. The Clinical Governance Committee (CGC) oversees the clinical governance framework under the guidance of new chair Dr Victoria Atkinson and includes health industry experts as well as senior RFDS Victoria health managers.

Over the last twelve months, the work of the committee and the clinical governance team resulted in improvements to clinical governance reporting, refinement of the Clinical Safety and Quality committees roles and purpose, enhancement of clinician credentialing, and expansion of the internal clinical audit program.

Quality services

RFDS Victoria is dedicated to the continuous improvement of our services through its quality management system and achieving certification against the updated ISO 9001:2016 in 2017 is evidence of this commitment. Clinical governance reviews such as an internal audit by KPMG and the RFDS national review provided focus for work towards accreditation against National Safety and Quality in Health Service Standards. RFDS Victoria formed a research committee to provide guidance and advice on the evaluation of our services and to ensure that outcomes from our rural primary health services contribute to evidence-based care.

Customer focus

Prioritising the safe delivery of quality services ensures our care is always person-centred.

In 2017/18 feedback was received from 585 patients and/or health services via feedback forms, telephone calls, emails and letters. In total, 93% of responses were complimentary, and with this year being the first to include feedback from health services, RFDS Victoria is now incorporating improvement suggestions for person-centred care from other providers as well as patients.

The annual patient satisfaction survey across all primary health services sought information on patient experience, not just satisfaction with the service. Patients were able to share how they felt about the service, if they were listened to and provide feedback on the personnel providing the service. As a response to this survey, RFDS established a Health Literacy Committee to focus on improving awareness of health literacy and empowering patients in their health provider interactions.
We wish to congratulate and commend you on your excellent service. The team were exceptional. Both excelled in empathy and professionalism.

The visiting doctor from Melbourne to our region has been of great benefit to me personally and to many other women in the area... She is not only a joy to visit but is keenly interested in fixing problems no matter how small or large.

Great service, kind, knowledgeable professionals and really convenient.

What a great ride and trip and what a pleasant pair of operatives.
Rural Women’s GP Service

The Rural Women’s GP Service has been provided in rural and remote communities since 1999 throughout Victoria. The program offers a female GP in towns where there is no female GP within the area.

This service is accessible to both local men and women, giving them a valued gender choice when visiting the doctor.

The Rural Women’s GP service is supported through funding from the Rural Workforce Agency Victoria (RWAV) and RFDS donors, and is 100% bulk billed, leaving the patients with no out-of-pocket expenses.

The clinics are run every six to eight weeks and are hosted in partnership with a local GP clinic or health service in the area.

This year saw the program expand into two new towns – Ouyen and Heywood, and additional clinics in Robinvale at Murray Valley Aboriginal Cooperative and Robinvale District Health Service. The service continues in Robinvale, Yarram, Hopetoun, Corryong, and Charlton. A total of 1,283 patients were seen by the RWGPS this year, saving over 2,800 hours of travel for patients.

Staff Profile

Dr. Vivienne Whitechurch

An honorary member of many rural communities across Victoria, Dr. Vivienne Whitechurch is just one of six GPs who visit patients as part of Victoria’s RWGPS.

A well-respected GP who works for the Jean Hailes Medical Centre for Women in Clayton, Vivienne travels to rural communities to offer residents gender choice when visiting their doctor. Working in some towns for a decade, Vivienne has become a part of the communities she serves. This includes choosing to support local business when eating out and developing close friendships with local health staff. After working for many years as a GP in the city, Vivienne now enjoys the many different elements that come with travelling to and working in rural areas. From witnessing the changing landscapes, to being welcomed by friendly and supportive rural communities, and seeing several generations of one family, Vivienne enjoys serving rural women and takes great pride in working for RFDS Victoria.

I always leave a clinic having learnt something new and helped someone with an issue. I am fortunate to have such a rewarding job.
CASE STUDY > AIDEN’S STORY

After tripping over while on a camping trip and receiving a knock to the teeth, primary school student Aiden needed to see a dentist.

Unfortunately, with Melbourne being a three hour drive away from the small town of Mansfield, significant travel is usually required to access dental treatment. Luckily, the Flying Doctor Dental Clinic happened to be in town the day of his accident. Aiden’s mother spotted the van and secured an appointment for a dentist to assess Aiden’s injuries. Appreciative of RFDS Victoria’s Flying Doctor Dental Clinic, Aiden’s mother commented...

The Royal Flying Doctor Service gave us peace of mind.

Flying Doctor Dental Clinic >

The Flying Doctor Dental Clinic provides screening, oral health promotion and treatment services to rural locations throughout Victoria, in partnership with Dental Health Services Victoria (DHSV) and the Australian Dental Association Victorian Branch (ADAVB).

In 2017/18, the program ran two dental clinics using a mobile dental truck and a portable clinic. These clinics provided service for 47 weeks of the year resulting in 3,092 occasions of service. The program operated in 22 towns across regional and rural Victoria, and continued to extend its reach into the most isolated parts of the state. During 2017/18 a second mobile dental truck has been built in partnership with DHSV.

This truck, which is fully self-contained, allows the service to reach those communities that do not have suitable power access. Later in the year the Flying Doctor Dental Clinic also commenced providing services on a regular basis in a fixed clinic in Omeo, in partnership with Omeo District Health.

> 3,092 screenings and treatment
In partnership with Gippsland Primary Health Network, RFDS launched a mental health service, a pilot program that improves access to mental health services for isolated communities across Far East Gippsland.

People living in Dargo, Ensay, Buchan, Gelantipy and Cann River are now able to access free and confidential support from a mental health clinician at their local Bush Nursing Centre, without the need for a GP referral. Across the year, 40 consultations were provided to clients with low-level mental health needs; either face-to-face or via the secure Flying Doctor Telehealth service. Nurses in these communities have been provided with training in order to more confidently assess and refer clients who are experiencing mental health issues. Community education and engagement opportunities have also been offered across Far East Gippsland in an effort to raise awareness of mental health and to reduce the stigma associated with seeking help. Responding to feedback from local communities, the program has been rebranded the Flying Doctor Wellbeing service. In 2018/19, RFDS will continue to offer mental health services in Far East Gippsland and will expand to other sites, operating as Flying Doctor Wellbeing.
The Flying Doctor Telehealth service has connected patients with specialist care across Victoria for over four years. The service is delivered via a secure platform that allows patients to access an online appointment with a specialist, without needing to leave their community.

The telehealth platform allows for online bookings, easy clinician scheduling, secure file and document sharing and secure online appointments.

RFDS Victoria partners with over 65 GP practices, health services and community services to provide patients with access to Flying Doctor Telehealth appointments in their familiar, local healthcare facility. Access to online telehealth appointments reduces barriers and removes the burden of travel for patients needing specialist care.

The Flying Doctor Telehealth service expanded throughout the 2017/18 financial year from endocrinologist appointments for patients with diabetes, to provide appointments with a cardiologist, psychiatrists and a respiratory physician. In 2017/18, Flying Doctor Telehealth provided 537 specialist consultations and saved patients an estimated 3,375 hours or 307,399km of travel; saving money and time for patients and improving their health outcomes.

For Hopetoun-based patient Alan Lucas, RFDS is a lifesaver. But he wasn’t rescued by a plane, or transported by our specialised vehicles on the road; he was linked to a specialist via the Flying Doctor Telehealth service.

“At first I wasn’t sure how an appointment with a computer screen would really help me. But the appointment was so easy, we could both hear and see each other and my specialist even had time to talk to me about other concerns. I didn’t have all that worry about travelling,” Alan says.

“Since I am on oxygen, I really can’t go anywhere, I am so grateful to the Royal Flying Doctor Service that they can come to me. They saved my life, that much I can tell you. All of this is keeping me alive.”

Partnering with local services such as Rural Northwest Health (RNH) allows the RFDS to reach patients with a variety of specialist care.

“For some patients they’d be faced with a 10 hour round trip from Hopetoun to see their specialist and that adds a lot of stress to their lives. We’ve seen patients come away from a telehealth consultation feeling so relieved, they didn’t have waiting room time and they could easily talk to their specialist. The telehealth service has made all the difference to many as they are saved the long and expensive drive home from appointments, and many find a familiar environment more reassuring,” says Kathy Poulton, Wellbeing Coordinator at RNH.

“Telehealth appointments mean they can access face-to-face time with specialists from a computer screen, fast-track decisions and get answers and support while being surrounded by people in their own community. Patients who have used the telehealth program are coming away from consultation saying they couldn’t believe how easy it all was, and how much peace of mind the appointment gave them.”
The Mobile Eye Care program allows rural communities in Victoria to receive a free visit from an optometrist. The eye care clinics provide eye examinations, referrals and glasses to communities who would otherwise have very limited access to optometry services. This service is provided in the Mallee, West Wimmera and East Gippsland regions, reaching 278 patients in 2017/18 and dispensing 162 pairs of glasses.

In the Mallee region, RFDS partners with Mallee Track Health and Community Service and the Australian College of Optometry (ACO). In 2017/18 the Mallee service included school based clinics to allow easy access for students. In West Wimmera and East Gippsland, RFDS previously partnered with OneSight to provide this service, but are pleased to announce that, from August 2018, the partnership with ACO will be extended to include these regions. In these regions the service is provided via local health services and Bush Nursing Centres.

RFDS Victoria has continued to innovate and invest in its technology platform by developing improved tracking technology to provide our customers with accurate patient arrival and travel times while also streamlining the accurate transfer of information by removing paper based and manual data entry processes.

RFDS partnered with Opturion to implement an optimisation algorithm into its patient transport management system to achieve more timely and complex decision making around job allocation and crew utilisation to reduce costs and improve customer service levels. This technology is understood to be the first of its kind in the patient transport industry.
Mobile Patient Care operate a fleet of 97 patient transport vehicles and a Beechcraft King Air based at Essendon servicing patient transport needs throughout Victoria and Australia.

RFDS Victoria is contracted to Ambulance Victoria and New South Wales Health to provide non-emergency patient transport services across metropolitan and regional areas, including responding to non-urgent 000 calls to enable paramedics to focus their resources on responding to urgent cases.

RFDS Victoria has contracts with many public and private hospitals throughout VIC and NSW, with strong regional networks across Northern Victoria, Gippsland and the Wimmera and Mallee regions.

The implementation of an online Learning Management System has enabled RFDS patient transport staff to obtain improved and timelier access to training packages to enable them to perform their roles with confidence.

Investment in clinical quality and training resources and systems will ensure Mobile Patient Care continues to improve the way it measures performance and identify improvement opportunities. This will be a key focus moving forward to ensure the service maintains the highest standards of clinical care for its patients on the road and in the air.

The appointment of a Customer Relationship Manager will deliver enhanced professionalism in managing our important customer relationships and ensure RFDS patient transport operations are constantly responding to feedback and improving our services to meet the evolving needs of existing and future customers.
CASE STUDY > KEV’S STORY

After suffering a severe and debilitating stroke, the Flying Doctor was able to assist veteran Kevin Taylor to return home from Melbourne to Perth.

Seven months after Kevin Taylor retired he decided to travel from his home in Perth to spend time with his daughter Jo in Melbourne. The sprightly 69 year old loved his annual Melbourne trips to share a laugh with Jo, drink wine along the Yarra River, catch a footy match or even the Cup.

Unfortunately on his latest trip Kevin’s and his family’s lives changed forever when he suffered a severe stroke that left him with diminished mental capacity and the need for constant care.

The former RAAF Warrant Officer, Mandarin translator and dedicated father put all his effort into recovering as best he could following the stroke. With his family by his side in person and in spirit, he focussed on getting well enough to return to Perth to be where he could see his grandchildren grow-up.

It was quite apparent to Kevin’s family that he wouldn’t be able to travel home on a commercial airline, requiring constant care including feeding during the flight.

So when Jo learned the Flying Doctor could take Kev home she was “over the moon.”

I know he will be safe and well taken care of, said Jo.

Mobile Event Care >

RFDS is very pleased that Melbourne Racing Club (MRC) renewed its Event First Aid contract with RFDS for a further three years.

During 2017/18, RFDS provided event first aid services at 107 MRC events, including the Caulfield Guineas and Caulfield Cup.

Mobile Event Care performed 107 event days during the last financial year.

> 107 events
Launched in February 2017, Road to Respite is a joint initiative between the Royal Flying Doctor Service and Very Special Kids providing transport for regional children with life-threatening conditions to the Very Special Kids Hospice in Malvern.

With many regional families unable to access the hospice due to transport costs and time constraints, this service helps to reduce fatigue in carers and increase the health and wellbeing of children living with serious illnesses, chronic disease and genetic disorders.

The two-year pilot program aims to transport up to 80 children to Victoria’s only children’s hospice using a vehicle provided through Ambulance Victoria and funding from the William Buckland Foundation. Once transported to the Malvern facility, the children receive specialised 24-hour nursing care, giving their parents a much needed break.

The Chignell family from Bendigo have benefitted from the Road to Respite.
In a commitment to reaching the next generation, more than 6,000 primary school children shared stories of the Flying Doctor through the education program ‘Look! Up in the Sky’.

With both online and interactive learning, school children gained awareness of the approaches to health throughout our vast country. They also gained understanding of good health practices.

The Flying Doctor Kids Club focusses on children five to 12 years old, providing a way to interact with the service, gain positive health practices and understand the history and context of the Flying Doctor.

The Flying Doctor Kids Club was launched in 2015. To date more than 1,500 children have joined the club from across Australia. The Kids Club is free to join, and children receive a membership certificate, bi-annual newsletters, and a birthday card. In 2017/18 Kids Club members were invited to meet the Flying Doctor team at the Government House Open Day.

> 1,500 members
Coinciding with the anniversary of 90 years since the first RFDS flight, ‘Flick us a Flynn’ shared the story of the man on the $20 note, Founder John Flynn.

From 4-18 May, reaching more than 2 million people through online and traditional media, RFDS ambassadors shared messages of support for the Flying Doctor. The support of the following ambassadors is greatly appreciated: Annette Allison, Michala Banas, Steve Bastoni, Emma Blomfield, Jane Bunn, Tiffany Cherry, Stefan Dennis, Samantha Gash, John Hastings, Cam Knight, Annie Maynard, Catriona Rowntree, Catherine Skinner, Dani Venn, Mark Wales.
Give Them Wings >

Valued at $2,500 each, the scholarships encourage the next generation of nursing and allied health professionals from rural communities to complete their studies and provide services in country areas once they graduate.

After being presented with their cheque and certificate by members of the Bayside Auxiliary, scholarship awardees shared their motivations for studying nursing and allied health, why they aspire to return to regional Victoria to practice after graduation, and how the scholarship will allow them to focus on their studies in a way not otherwise possible.

The scholarship awardees were:

Ebony Mailes of Hamilton who is studying Nursing at ACU University.

Megan Peverill of Charlton who is studying Occupational Therapy at La Trobe University.

The gala event raised more than $80,000 to support the Flying Doctor.

Outback Tour
A group of 14 Flying Doctor supporters travelled from Melbourne to Central Australia and Uluru, Darwin, Mt Isa and to the site of the first RFDS flight, Cloncurry Queensland, gaining closer insight into the work of the RFDS. Members of the RFDS Outback Tour saw first-hand how their donations assist in the provision of healthcare services across Australia.

John Flynn Luncheon
Dedicated supporters celebrated the birthday of our founder the Reverend John Flynn at the annual John Flynn Luncheon at the RACV City Club in November. More than 250 guests were entertained by Everald Compton, author of ‘The Man on the Twenty Dollar Notes’.

RFDS Victoria Annual General Meeting Forum
Held on the same day as our John Flynn Luncheon, 155 supporters attended the RFDS Victoria Annual General Meeting Forum. The event featured reports from the Board, Chief Executive, health partners, community fundraisers, corporate supporters and Give Them Wings scholarship winners.
RFDS Victoria was proud to launch our new regular giving program in 2018 – Flying Doctor Support Crew. Supporters who pledge ongoing donations enable the Flying Doctor to continue providing much-needed services to people living, working or travelling in rural and remote areas of Victoria.

Every donation ensures more regional communities have access to essential healthcare, so all contributions are received with gratitude and put towards the delivery of services that change lives.

During the year, we saw a 105% growth in our Support Crew regular giving program from 1,500 donors to 3,520 in 17/18. Regular giving growth is a part of a long term strategy to provide a reliable source of income on which to build new patient services into the future.

Thank you to our Support Crew donors.

John Flynn Society confirmed bequestors

Thank you to the people who have advised us they have included a gift in their Will. We are most grateful. We recognise you during your lifetime for the legacy you have planned.

The first Flying Doctor pilot, Arthur Affleck, had no navigational aids, no radio and only a compass. He navigated by landmarks such as fences, rivers, dirt roads and telegraph lines.
In its inaugural year, the Aerial Medical Service (which changed its name to the Flying Doctor Service in 1942 and the Royal Flying Doctor Service in 1955) flew 50 flights to 26 destinations and treated 225 patients. In 2017/18 38,052 patients were transported by air and 75,147 were transported by road.

During 2017/2018 an Operational Management Team (OMT) was formed to strengthen our leaders and further expand their individual and collective capabilities.

The OMT come together monthly to share information and assist the organisation delivering process improvements, change agendas and initiatives to enhance the organisation’s culture and overall employment experience for our people.

In 2017/18 we saw the formation of our Diversity Working Group comprising of a team of employees who are passionate about creating a workplace where diversity is both embraced and celebrated within an inclusive environment.

Dr Alice Gubbins

Having grown up in a rural area, Alice has always wanted to give back to people living in regional areas. Joining the Flying Doctor Dental Clinic unit of the RFDS last year, the young dentist from a private practice background was drawn to the Flying Doctor’s strong commitment to providing Victorians with access to quality healthcare, no matter where they live. The organisation’s philosophy of ensuring those in rural and remote areas have the same access to health services as those in the city impressed Alice, who now typically spends one week away in a rural area, followed by a week back in Melbourne.

“It’s really nice to be able to contribute, because a new smile and oral health knowledge combined really can empower patients and give them a different perspective.”

We will go the distance because we care, we are passionate and we are proud of our work.
Volunteers

The support of generous volunteers truly enables RFDS to ‘go the distance’ so their ongoing contributions are highly valued by the organisation.

Volunteers who tirelessly give their time and skills allow us to reach people through our education and health programs. RFDS Victoria is fortunate to have the help of 70 volunteers across the state, from health care professionals to administrative support. In Richmond, 17 volunteers regularly provide help with a range of administrative tasks including packing and mailing the Flying Doctor Christmas items purchased by supporters of the service.

Through the Give Them Wings Scholarship, the RFDS Bayside Auxiliary has assisted sixteen future regional and rural health workers.

Bayside Auxiliary members celebrate 20 years of supporting RFDS.

A radio beats two river crossings

From 1935, Victorians raised funds to support two bases in Western Australia. In Wyndham, WA, base operations began a year before wireless had been installed. Before radio, a runner often delivered messages for help in person: One such runner, from the Forrest River Mission, travelled for 23 hours on foot to reach the RFDS. He covered over 90kms overland through bush and swam two rivers. Once alerted by the runner, the Flying Doctor was flown to the Mission within the hour.

- RFDS named the top performing, most reputable charity in 2017 for the 7th year in a row
- A significant partnership between RFDS Victoria and Very Special Kids (VSK) enables families living with a terminally ill child access to respite care, no matter where they live. Road to Respite provides transport for regional families to Very Special Kids in Malvern, Victoria’s only children’s hospice
- A second mobile dental truck was completed in June 2018, complementing the existing dental truck and portable kit. The service has expanded to reach more schools, residential aged care facilities and isolated communities
- Flying Doctor Telehealth has undergone rapid expansion in the past financial year, into 51 additional sites (including eight Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations) and with expanded specialist services, including cardiology, respiratory and psychiatry
- The Rural Women’s GP service expanded to three additional sites – Heywood, Ouyen and Murray Valley Aboriginal Co-op
- The Flying Doctor Psychological Service was renamed Flying Doctor Wellbeing after extensive community consultation. This name change is part of a multi-pronged approach to improve community access to mental health initiatives
- Our Mobile Event Care team served at 107 event days in the past year, including the Melbourne Spring Racing Carnival and ‘Splashdown’ waterpark
- Mobile Patient Care (MPC) road transport services increased by 7%. RFDS aligned with Opturion software solutions to improve job allocation and crew tasking, reducing costs and improving customer service levels. This technology is the first of its kind in the patient transport industry
